

ABSTRACT

A fluid inducer having an inducer valve operable to open in response to a load is evaluated by an evaluation device. This device includes a fluid conduit for pressurizing the fluid inducer with a fluid and a pressure sensor that senses the pressure in the fluid conduit. In addition, the device includes an actuator for applying the load to the fluid inducer and a load sensor that determines the load in response to the sensed pressure .